L/O to understand how important it is to show love and kindness to one another.

Sometimes when babies are born earlier than nine months they need help to keep warm and with their breathing. They are protected and looked after using an incubator whilst they grow stronger.

A few years ago twin girls were born and they arrived too early so that their lungs weren't properly developed.

They were really very tiny and were kept warm and safe inside incubators in a special ward that was used to looking after tiny babies.

Their names were Brielle and Kyrie Jackson

As time passed Kyrie grew stronger and bigger but Brielle didn't do as well. She only weighed as much as seven apples, she was so tiny!

The nurses were worried about her as she wasn't making the progress that they expected.

One day a nurse had an idea!... She spoke to the girls mum and to the doctors and then they moved the babies into the same incubator so that they could be together.

The they were left to go to sleep.

When the nurse checked on the babies later on

What do you think that she found?

Brielle had snuggled up to her sister.

Kyrie had then put her small arm around her as if to hug and support her.

From that moment on, Brielle's breathing and heart rate stabilized and she began to improve.

Why do you think that Brielle began to improve?

What do you think made the difference?

Brielle & Kyrie grew up to be happy and healthy and of course the best of friends.

It's the start of a new term and we have lots of very young children in school too. Some children will be excited; others will be worried or even sad. The way we treat people at the start of the term is very important.

What could you do to make sure everyone feels happy and welcome here?
